DEAL SCHOOL

DEAL SCHOOL

AN INITIATIVE BY MIDDHA VENTURES

Built for those who want a seat at the table,
not a seat in the classroom.

A 10-Week Venture Capital Immersion Fellowship

Most "VC courses" teach you what a term sheet is. This one puts you in the room while one gets negotiated.

WEEK 10. THE ROOM YOU CAN'T FAKE YOUR WAY THROUGH.

You present an investment recommendation live to active VCs who are out there doing deals right now, not retired professionals reminiscing about 2015.

They'll push back. You'll have to defend it. That's the job. This is the only place you get to fail at it before it actually counts.

WHAT YOU LEAVE WITH

1. REAL STARTUP EVALUATION

Real startup application screened, not case studies.

2. LIVE INVESTOR EXPOSURE

A seat in live pitch calls, watching real investors decide in real time.

3. END-TO-END DUE DILIGENCE

Your own due diligence, run end-to-end.

4. TERM SHEETS & CAP TABLES

Term sheets and cap tables you can actually read, not just recognize.

5. INVESTMENT THESIS DEVELOPMENT

Build, defend, and refine your own investment thesis through feedback from active investors.

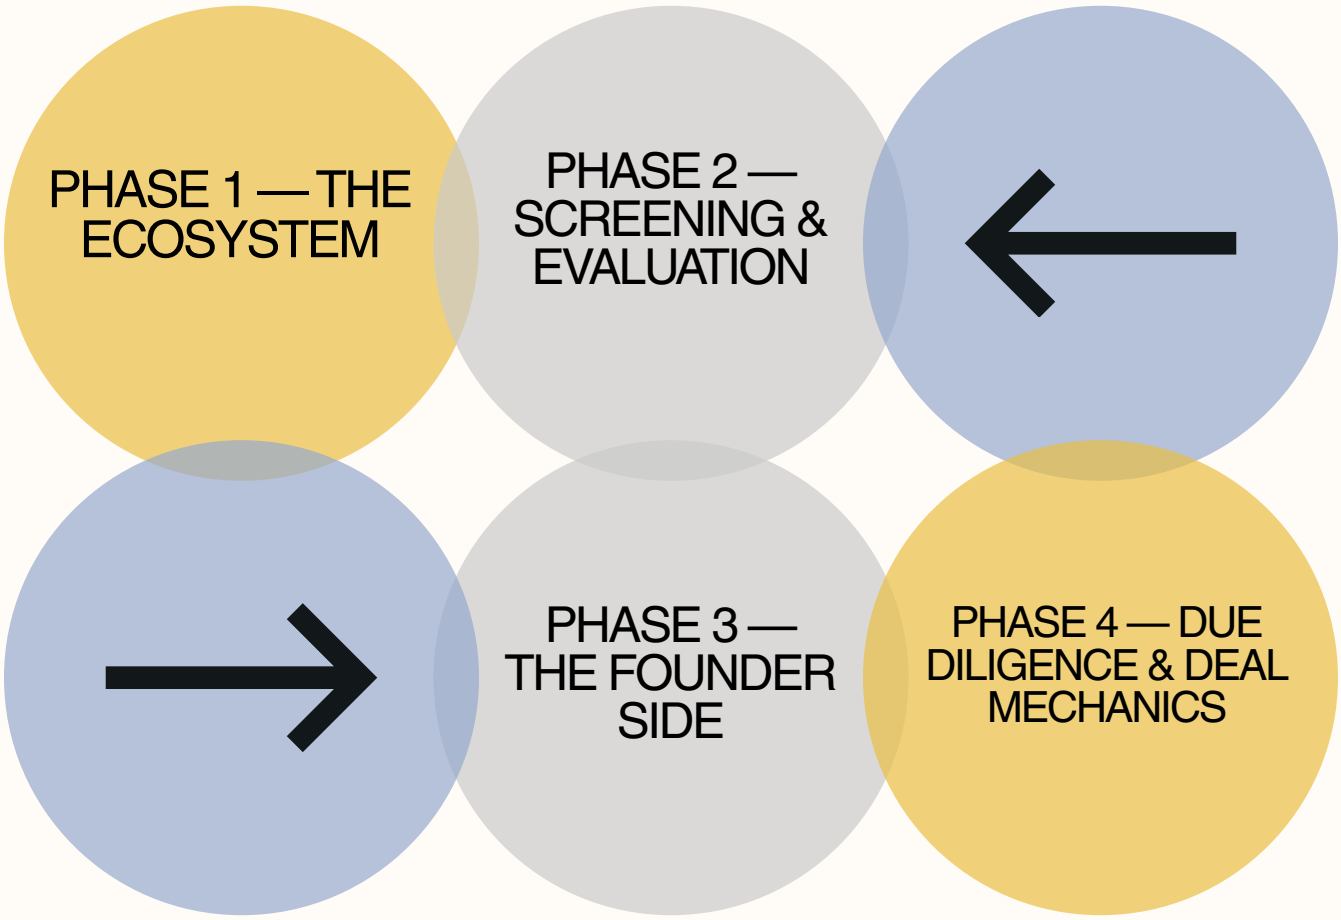

6. CERTIFICATION & ALUMNI NETWORK

A DealSchool Fellowship Certificate from Middha Ventures, and a seat in the alumni network after.

INITIATIVE BY MIDDHA VENTURES

DealSchool isn't a curriculum someone wrote and hoped was realistic. It's how Middha Ventures — a Navi Mumbai family office that backs post-MVP startups — actually evaluates deals. You're not learning a simulation of the process. You're running the real one, on real 1.

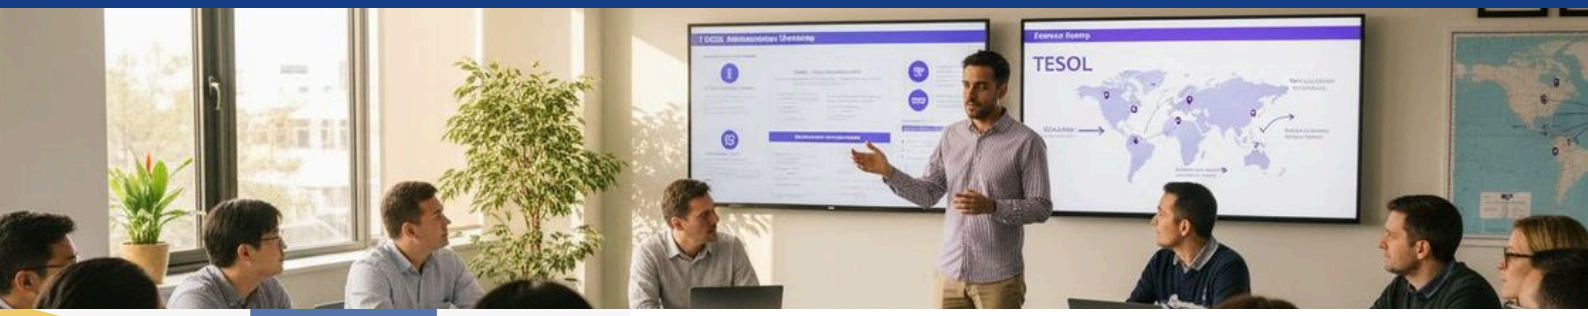

THE FOUR PHASES

Week 10 — Something You Must Experience Yourself

A secretive, immersive concluding weekend. Details of syllabus graduation exercises, live boardroom defensibility scenarios, and network operations are strictly available inside our program brochure.

OVERVIEW OF: THE 10 WEEKS

01 GET INSIDE THE VC MINDSET

Why investors pass on 9 out of 10 startups, and what makes the 10th one different.

02 LEARN TO READ A STARTUP LIKE AN INVESTOR

Screening, live pitch exposure, and market sizing on startups that actually applied.

03 SIT ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE TABLE

Founder psychology, diligence frameworks, role-played negotiations.

04 THE PAPER THAT MAKES A DEAL REAL

Term sheets, SHAs, and cap tables that nobody teaches you to actually read.

05 RUN THE WHOLE PROCESS YOURSELF

Screen it. Evaluate it. Defend it live, in front of VCs who'll tell you exactly where your thinking breaks.

WEEK 1: FOUNDATIONS OF VENTURES

Understanding venture capital

Build a strong foundation in venture capital by understanding how the ecosystem works, from fund structures and startup lifecycles to the language investors use every day.
Learn how venture funds generate returns through successful exits and develop the ability to assess whether a startup is investment-ready using an investor's perspective.
Finish the week with a hands-on exercise that puts these concepts into practice by evaluating a sample startup.

Investor Foundations

WEEK 2: LEARNING TO SEE LIKE AN INVESTOR

Building an Investor's Mindset

Go beyond venture capital concepts and begin thinking like an investor. Revisit key learnings from Week 1 through open discussions, then build a framework for evaluating startup potential. Observe how venture capital firms screen inbound startup applications in real time, discuss key insights with your cohort, and apply your learning through an independent screening assignment.

Investor Framework

02

Practical Exposure

WEEK 3: SCREENING IN PRACTICE

Evaluating Startups with Confidence

Put your learning into action by conducting independent screening evaluations on assigned startups. Apply a structured investment framework to assess each opportunity, present your findings for feedback, and refine your analysis through guided debriefs. The week concludes with a dedicated doubt session to strengthen your understanding before moving on to live founder interactions.

Practical Screening

02

Feedback & Refinement

WEEK 4:
LIVE PITCH CALLS

Inside the Founder Pitch

Step into the investment room and observe live startup pitches from real founders. Learn how investors evaluate businesses beyond the pitch deck by practicing structured note-taking, identifying key investment signals, and asking thoughtful, relevant questions that uncover a startup's true potential.

01

Live Founder Pitches

02

Investor Evaluation

WEEK 5: MARKET SIZING & COMPETITIVE MAPPING

Measuring Market Opportunity

Learn how investors assess the size and attractiveness of a market before making an investment decision. Review insights from live pitch calls by comparing observations, identifying red and green flags, and aligning evaluation standards across the cohort. Build practical skills in market sizing using the TAM, SAM, and SOM framework, and map competitive landscapes to understand where startups fit within their industry.

01

Investment Analysis

02

Market Research

WEEK 6: FINAL PITCH EVALUATIONS

Refining Your Investment Thesis

Bring together everything you've learned by presenting your evaluated startups for structured review. Align with your team before final evaluations, defend your investment thesis, and receive detailed feedback on both your analysis and the startup's pitch quality. The week concludes with a dedicated doubt session, preparing you for the due diligence phase of the fellowship.

Final Evaluations

02

Expert Feedback

WEEK 7: THE FOUNDER'S SIDE

Understanding the Founder Journey

Step into the founder's perspective to understand the challenges behind building and fundraising for a startup. Explore the journey from idea validation and early team building to product development and growth. You'll also be introduced to the due diligence process, learn how investors assess startups beyond the pitch, and apply a due diligence checklist through a hands-on practical exercise.

02

Due Diligence Basics

WEEK 8: DUE DILIGENCE IN THE ROOM

Inside the Due Diligence Process

Take a deeper dive into how due diligence unfolds in real investment decisions. After a short breather to reflect on your learning journey, explore the complete due diligence workflow through interactive sessions led by the Middha Ventures team. Experience founder–investor role plays and witness how negotiations, questioning, and decision-making evolve from both sides of the table.

WEEK 9:
DEAL MECHANICS

From Evaluation to Investment

Learn how due diligence findings are transformed into an investment recommendation. Explore the legal and financial documents that underpin venture deals, including term sheets, shareholders' agreements (SHA), and cap tables. Understand the investment process from recommendation to wire transfer, while receiving guidance on presenting your sourcing and evaluation work. The week concludes with a final doubt session before the Venture Simulation.

WEEK 10: THE VENTURE SIMULATION

Putting It All Into Practice

Bring together everything you've learned throughout the fellowship in a final venture simulation. Source, evaluate, and present an investment recommendation for a startup at a given stage, just as a venture capital analyst would. Present your work before active VC mentors, showcase the strongest startup you evaluated during the fellowship, and conclude the journey with expert feedback, certification, and induction into the DealSchool alumni network.
